MIND THE DOORS!

Today, Victoria Line drivers are striking. One reason for this is that London Underground will not install safety equipment that stops doors opening on the wrong side of the train.

The safety implications are obvious. How often have you or your children been on a crowded train jammed against a door? If this door opens unexpectedly, you could be seriously injured or even killed.

Every other London Underground line has a device called a Correct Side Door Enabler to prevent the wrong door being opened. But London Underground will not install it on the Victoria line. Why should you, the Victoria line passengers, be the only ones treated in this dangerous and irresponsible way?!

Don't let Victoria line passengers be treated like second-class citizens. Phone London Underground today on 0845-3309880 to register your complaint.
